A. Kiefer's drug house is lavishly adorned for the event and flags form the chief part of the colors used. Kipp Brothers have a fine front on their house. A notable design is a circle of flags and radiating from them are hundreds of small flags. Pictures of veterans are used between each window and flags and streamers complete the gala dress. Born & Co. have covered the front of their house with bands of the national colors and the windows are but slightly seen through the small spaces where the bands are drawn apart. It gives almost an effect of a solid red, white and blue build-

Both the C., H. & D. and Pennsylvania ticket offices are profusely decorated in various patriotic designs. The Pennsylvania office has arranged an oil painting of General Harrison, which is framed in by a wealth of flags and appropriate designs emblematic of the week.

Every saloon in the business portion of the city is in gorgeous array for the coming week. Thousands of yards of bunting and loads of small flags have been used toward arranging a combination, which in many instances are very fetching. Many of the saloons have displayed over their doors the legend, "Welcome comrades," in anticipation of an exceedingly thirsty throng of visitors. One especially enter-prising wet-goods dealer. who evidently expects to meet the members of his old regiment, has swung to the breeze the in-"Welcome, -- Indiana Regivitation, ment." The decorations at the Eastman, Schleicher & Lee store are purely the national colors. Sixteen large silk flags float from as many windows of the several stories, and can be seen almost the full length of Washington street. An immense banner bearing the stars and stripes swings to the breeze from the top of the

After a number of attempts to prepare a suitable decoration, the furnishing house of Albert Gall was complete last night, and to-day will present one massive front of red, white and blue. From the top of the building to the sidewalk is a wonderful continuous drapery of the flag, ornamented occasionally by G. A. R. designs. The pictures of military heroes, tastefully framed, have for a background the pure solors for which they struggled.

Tiny red, white and blue incandescent lights ornament the interior of the Circle rark barber shop, and when turned on at full glow they form the prettiest effect imaginable. Other decorations are made very handsome under the brilliant colored lights. The novel plan was invented by the proprietor, George Fate.

ROBERTS PARK AND Y. M. C. A. At Roberts Park Church immense flags droop from the organ, their fields of blue lying close together. Streamers swing down from the top of the organ. The seat occupied by the organist is draped with an old-gold piece of silk, giving a very pretty effect. Next week the church will be the headquarters for the Women's Relief Corps. and on the organ front is also a painting of the badge of this order. Above the choir loft two large flags hang on either side of the Epworth League flag. Small flags are artistically placed about the gallery rail.
The Y. M. C. A. Hall, which will be used for the convention, has been decorated with a great deal of taste for the W. R. C. The gallery is hidden with a band of the three lines, one each of red, white and blue, and the sides next the stage have large flags. At the rear of the stage are three flags in fan designs; one is hung in the center and a smaller one at each side. Just under the side lights are banners of the national colors. From the corners of the ceiling to the center are festoons of the colors, which make a graceful finish to the Pardon of Martin Chambers.

The Governor yesterday granted a pardon to Martin M. Chambers, of Clinton Chambers had formerly kept a crazy woman at his home, for which he received a compensation of $2. When it came time for settlement it was alleged that Chambers had failed to account for $53. He was accordingly convicted of embezzlement and sentenced to the Prison North for two years. The pardon was granted on the ground that even if Chambers were guilty, his compensation for boarding the woman was very reasonable. and the sentence was considered too heavy.

The St. Louis Festivities. In another column will be found an announcement of the attractions at St. Louis. The Carnival has already commenced, and will continue well into October, with magnificent illuminations at frequent intervals. The electric and gas displays are gorgeous in the extreme, and for the tenth consecutive season the Exposition will be open. This year Sousa's Grand Concert Band, which achieved such signal success at the World's Fair, will provide the wusic, in addition to which Madame Scalchi and other world-renowned soloists will appear. Full details of the other attractions are given, and it only remains to be added that the railroads have announced exceptionally low rates to St. Louis.

THE FIRST POST ARRIVES

Two Veterans Wander in from Nebraska and Are Assigned Quarters.

Everything Is Ready and the Grand Army Cannot Come Too Quick for the Local Committee-Food for All at Reasonable Rates.

O wing to the fact that the reduction in railroad rates does not take effect until today the executive bond did not expect any G. A. R. arrivals until this morning, but they were agreeably surprised, yesterday afternoon, on the receipt of a telephone message-from the watchman at the Camp McGinnis barracks, stating that there were two men there with cards of assignment for six men from a post in Nebraska, and asking for instruction as to what to do with them. He was promptly instructed to take care of them and a general circular letter of instruction was immediately sent to him for his guidance in placing the veterans as they arive. The instructions are directed to the commandants of camps, and direct them to take up the cards of assignment that are presented and issue therefor bunk tickets, one for each man to the number indicated on the assignment card. This bunk ticket is held by the veteran until the encampment is over, and entitles him to the use of any unoccupied bunk. No reservations will be made, either for individuals or for posts, but the men will take their choice of any place that is not already occupied at the time they choose to turn in. The night and day watchmen are required to patrol the cross aisles at all times while on duty, which enables them to keep a good lookout up and down the longitudinal aisles, and the commandant of the camp is required to make a report each morning, showing the number of unoccupied bunks in his barracks the preceding night so that additional assignments can be made to the camp if it be found necessary and if all space be not occupied. The committee finds itself in excellent condition in the matter of accommodations at this late day, and, although it has found it necessary to erect 160 tents, to be used for sleeping purposes, east of the barracks at Camp Wallace, it still has some free quarters held in reserve for the few who will come in at the eleventh hour and want a place to sleep. In this respect the committee is far ahead of the arrangements of any previous encampment.

WHERE THEY WILL BE FED. Next to the question of sleeping accommodations for the veterans who will at tend the encampment next week the matter of subsistence has received the attention of the execution board, and they have endeavored to close the arrangements so that the veterans, who receive the free accommodations at Camp Wallace, the barracks located at Randolph and East Washington streets, will be well cared for in this respect, and at moderate prices. When it is known that nearly sixteen thousand of the old veterans will be afforded free accommodations in this camp it will be readily seen that it will be necessary to make extensive preparation so as to be able to supply the maximum number of forty-eight thousand meals daily. This privilege has been granted to William Archdeacon, and the board has entered into a contract with him to supply good, well-cooked meals containing the essential necessaries of life, with daily changes so that the fare will not become tiresome. The price to be charged is 25 cents for breakfast or supper and 35 cents for dinner. Mr. Archdeacon has entered into a bond of $3,000 guaranteeing that all of the requirements in the contract will be carried out. Being the only eating place located inside of the fences inclosing the camp he will, of course, handle the greatest number of the visitors, but there are many tents and stands erected on the property adjacent to the camp that will be able to supply eatables to a good number, as well as many temporary booths that have been erected along Washington street for several squares west of the encampment grounds. In regard to the arrangements for the service of meals at the camp the arrangements here are far superior to those at Washington last year, where, it has been said, the men were poorly fed, the food being very inferior, poorly cooked and sold at a high price, so that the present encampment promises to le a very great improvement on any previous year.

At Camp McGinnis there are no official arrangements made for feeding the lodgers, but every yard along the side of the barrack contains a small eating stand and there is also a large eating stand and lunch end of the barracks. The exact number of bunks in these barracks is 3,360, so that it is thought there will be no difficulty in handling the crowd with the accommodations already provided, and if the supply be inadequate, the distance into the center of the city is so small there will be no necessity of any one going hungry. At many of the schoolhouses the neighbors have consented to supply meals at 25 cents each, and at several places where there are convenient vacant lots church organizations of ladies have made preparations to run dining rooms in tents or temporary sheds. No eating places will be placed in any of the school grounds. as the power of the committee does not cover any such usage of the grounds. DR. ELDER AFTER BLANKETS.

A smart tilt occurred yesterday afternoon between Dr. Elder, chief medical director of the encampment, and Quartermaster-general Compton, at the office of the latter at the Statehouse. The result of the interview was calculated to stir up the indignation of the medical director, and be administered a severe lecture to his colleague. Early yesterday afternoon the Doctor called at the Statehouse and requested Mr. Compton to issue a requisite number of blankets from the State supplies to be used in the hospital service. The Quartermaster is quoted as replying that he would do nothing of the sort; that the blankets had been packed away, and it would be too much trouble to unpack them. Dr. Elder states that he explained the necessity of having the blankets, but was dismissed with the polite reply that he would not get them. From the office of the Quartermaster the angry medical director repaired to the executive department and laid his claim before the Governor, who promised to consider it. Late yesterday evening the chief executive took the matter in hand and issued an order for 216 blankets for the use of the hospital corps. The Standard Oil Company, under their offer to furnish the necessary oil for lighting the barracks and schoolhouses during the encampment, will to-day commence delivery. Five gallons will be sent to each schoolhouse, and one barrel to each of the camps. When this supply is exhausted they will furnish an additional supply.

Canvas Houses Ali Over the City-Where the Veterans Will Be Housed,

Tents sprang up all over the city yesterday like mushrooms and all available space was spread with canvas. Up in Military Park things assumed the aspect of the times from which the park derives its name and the entire grounds became a widerness of canvas. Tents were also set in the Statehouse and courthouse yards. Tents were also stretched round about the barracks and the buildings are gayly decorated with flags and bunting, stands are all erected, and with the exception of some of the officers' and hospital tents the arrangements for the reception of the visiters are complete. The provisions for some of the stands are already being brought to barracks. The long tables for covered with shining oil cloth, and a large and battered coffee nrn occupies a prominent place near at hand. The kitchen department is under the command of William Harrison, who has been chief cook at a number of the National Encampments, and is rapidly being put in shape to prepare the food for the comrades. Six ranges have been set in position and several hogsbeads of dishes are being unpacked. The meals will be served at the rate of twenty-five cents for breakfast and supper and thirty cents for dinner. There will be no intermission between the meals, and when breakfast is overdinner will begin. The camp is able to feed 502 persons at one sitting. At the ends of the barracks, at both camps, woughs will be built for bathing purposes. All the quarters at the disposal of the citizens' executive committee have been assigned and an overflow camp for the late arrivals have been established at Meridian and Merrill streets on the site to be occupied by the manual training school. It will be called Camp Foster, with A. L. May as commandant. Overflow arrangements have also been made at Camp Wallace and at that camp alone there will be quartered 14,000 men. The total lodging accommodations thus far assigned by the committee will be sufficient to accommodate about 100,000 men. It is expected that late arrivals will call for several thousand more.

Coming in Special Trains. The railway superintendents are all busy gathering up their coaches to move the business of the encampment. Branch lines are being robbed of all the coaches that they will not use, and borrowing from connections on an extensive scale. Superintendent Whitcomb states that from information he has received there will be a number of special trains in on Sunday, but the larger per cent. of them will arrive on Monday and Monday night. Harry Miller, superintendent of the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania lines, notified Superintendent Whitcomb that there would be at least eight special trains over that road. N. K. Elliott, superintendent of transportation of the Vandalia, was in the city yestesday. He states that the Vandalia, besides running specials from points on its own line, would have a considerable number of special trains in here turned over to them by connections. Superintendent Jarvis, of the Lake Erie & Western, notified Superintendent Whitcomb tuat his company will have at least, from the old I., P. & C. division, six special trains. He expects by to-morrow to be able to give the number of special trains to come in and the number of coaches the regular trains

Let There Be No Crowding. The committee on entertainment in charge of the reception to be held at Tomlinson Hall, Monday evening, held a wellattended meeting at the Commercial Club last night, and the badges were distributed to those present. George W. Slosn, W. C. David, G. C. Webster, Dr. Dunning, Chas. Dark and Dr. John Hurty were appointed a committee at the hall. All subcommittees reported that everything was in readiness, and the subcommittee on order, inside and out, was instructed to see the Board of Public Works and secure the privilege of wiring the streets about the entrances to the ball so that the crowd would not prevent those holding cards of admission from getting into the hall. Guests holding admission cards will be admitted at the Market-street entrance to the ball, while the committee, members of the chorus and orchestra will present credentials at the Delaware-street entrance. The committee also suggests that the people of the city refrain from crowding about the entrances to the building. as there will be practically nothing to see there and it might cause great inconvenience to guests from abroad who desire to be present. An Old Flag in the Parade. Comrade J. E. Sanford, of Chicago, writes that Comrade Wolfred M. Low, past commander of Columbia Post, No. 706, G. A. R., will take with him to the encampment, and carry the same in the grand parade, the old headquarters flag of Gen. George H. Thomas, commander of the Army of the Cumberland. This old flag has been to all the prominent encampments of the G. A. R. throughout the country. It is now on the world's fair ground, suspended over General Thomas's headquarters wagon in the Government Building, by permission of Capt. John Rodgers, in charge of the government exhibit. The flag was presented to Mr. Sanford by one of General Thomas's staff, and is highly prized by all old soldiers, as well as by Mr. Sanford.

Assignments of Free Quarters. Assignments for free quarters were made yesterday at headquarters as follows: Davis Post, No. 612, of Woodstock, O., under command of Miles Standish, were assigned to Galloway's building, No. South Pennsylvania street; Well-200 man Post, No. 418, from Jasper, Ind., with W. W. Kendall in command, was assigned to Galloway's Building, 200 South Pennsylvania street. The band of thirty pieces from the Soldiers' and Sailors Orphans Home were assigned to quarters in school house No. 11, at the corner of Fourth and Tennessee streets.

Messenger Boys Can't Break Through. Manager Butler, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has asked that their uniformed messengers be permitted to pass through the lines on the day of the parade, when necessary in the performance of duty. The request was referred to Superintendent of Police Colbert for final action. It is scarcely probable that the request will be granted as some very urgent requests have been made of a similar nature, and in every instance they have been refused.

Announcement of Reunions. The reunion of the First Indiana Heavy Artillery will take place Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in Superior Court room No. 2. The reunion of the Eighty-fourth Indiana has been changed from 2 P. M. to 9 A. M. Wednesday. A detachment of Post No. 1, the pioneer post in the United States, from Decatur, Ill., is pitching the tents where the post will go into camp on its arrival, and otherwise making the camp grounds ready for the reception of the veterans. Col. Lilly has provided quarters at the corner of Tennessee and Fourth streets for the Knightstown "Home" band, and they will remain over until Thursday morning, which will enable them to visit the encampment and conventions and exhibit their musical skill.

The Twenty-eighth Regiment of United States colored troops have changed the call for their reunion that was made for Noblesville Sept. 5 and 6, to this city, and have secured the A. M. E. Church, on Vermont street, for holding the meetings of their organization. They expect a large attendance and the meetings will be called to order promptly at 7:30 each evening. Last year when Executive Director Fortune went to Washington to attend the encampment, and pick up pointers in the manner of handling the work, he was afforded every opportunity for securing information by John Jay Edson, chairman of the Washington citizens' committee. As a return compliment Mr. Edson was invited to attend the encampment here next week as the guest of the committee, and until vesterday he expected to attend, but has wired that it will now be impossible for him to be present.

John Brett's Alleged Posteffice Robbery in a Worse Tangle than Ever.

John Brett, an employe of the Indiana Bicycle Company, was before United States Commissioner Van Buren again, yesterday, on the charge of robbing the North Indianapolis postoffice. As was brought out in the hearing on Thursday, the sole evidence against the prisoner is the fact that he had in his possession a quantity of overdue postage stamps. Brett explained that his landlady had given him the stamps, and his statement was corroborated by the latter. Yesterday afternoon another phase in the case was brought out by the examination of Mrs. Duffy, who resides at No. 187 West Ninth street. A few days ago a letter addressed to an individual at Peru, and bearing one of the overdue postage stamps, was seized by the department here, and, on investigation, the letter was found to have been placed in the box by Mrs. Duffy. This woman was brought down yesterday and questioned. She explained that on last Sunday she went to the Earl grocery store, at the corner of Mississippi and Ninth streets, a postage stamp, and was informed that the stamps were all out. She was turning to leave the store, when a young man standing by volunteered to furnish ber the desired articles. He took from his pocket two stamps, which she accepted and with which she posted the letter. This young man proved to be Otto Koster, a bartender at Brighton Heach. He was found and testified that Mrs. Duffy had related the truth about the matter. The stamps, he said. were given him by a stranger a few days ago in lieu of the price of a glass of beer. He placed them

Train Dispatchers Give Out that There Is Good Prospect for a Strike.

All the train dispatchers of the Big Four system were subjected to a reduction of 10 per cent. in their salaries, beginning with the 1st of this month, and there is now said to be great probability of their going out on strike rather than submit to the reduction. The Association of Train Dispatchers has not yet met to take official action on the question, but there is a strong feeling prevalent among the individuals in favor of a strike if the reduction be insisted on by the company. At the next meeting of the organization a committee will probably be appointed to wait on the officials of the company and ask them to reconsider the reduction. The feeling among the men is strongly in favor of striking in case they should prove unsuccessful in having the old scale restored. The members of the organization are loath to talk about the reduction and possibility of a strike till the matter has come before the body officially.
